

You see someone cheating during a test. What do you do?

You find a $20 bill in the school hallway. No one is around. What's your next step?

A friend tells a lie about another student to you. How do you respond?

A classmate is being made fun of because of their old phone. How can you support them?

Your friend wants you to skip class with them. What do you say?

You overhear a plan to play a mean prank on a teacher. What action do you take?

A friend accidentally hurts your feelings. How do you handle the situation?

You notice a classmate always sitting alone at lunch. What could you do?

Someone spreads a rumor about you. How do you deal with it?

You break something at a friend's house and they don't notice. Do you tell them?

A foreign student joins your class and seems lost. How do you help?

Your soccer team is encouraged to play rough to win a game. What's your reaction?

You're asked to vote for a classmate for class president just because they're popular. How do you vote?

A group is excluding someone because they're different. Do you join in or speak up?

You accidentally see the answers to a quiz. What do you do next?

Someone at school lost a pet and is very sad. How can you comfort them?

A friend brags about stealing small items from a store. How do you respond?

Your team loses a game and your teammates want to blame the referee. How do you react?

You see a classmate struggling with their homework. Do you offer to help?

It's your turn to pick a game in class, but a friend insists on their choice. What do you do?

A classmate is scared to present alone. Do you offer to join them?

You hear someone making fun of another's appearance. How do you handle it?

You're given too much change at a store. Do you keep it or return it?

Someone challenges your beliefs in a class discussion. How do you reply?

A friend wants you to help them with a test answer via text during a test. What is your response?

You witness someone vandalizing school property. What steps do you take?

Your project partner wants to take the easy way out, but it might lower the quality. What discussion do you have?

You find someone's school ID on the ground. What do you do with it?

Your friend jokes about cheating on their significant other. How do you react?

A friend drops their money and doesn't notice. What do you do?